INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

April's standout event was the so-called "Liberation Day" in the US, as tariff-related developments continued to dominate headlines and drive both market movements and macroeconomic data. This contributed to heightened volatility across global equity markets. Overall, we observed a continued rotation out of US assets, accompanied by further weakness in the US dollar.

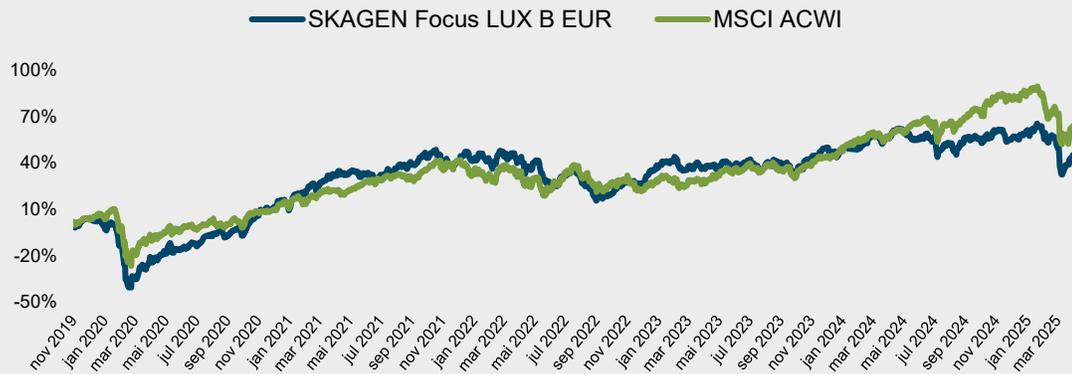

SKAGEN Focus outperformed its benchmark during the month. The top contributor to performance was German potash producer K+S, which benefitted from an overall pickup in demand and higher output prices. Our South Korean holding, IM Financial (formerly DGB Financial), was another strong performer, reporting solid results and continuing to execute its turnaround strategy through improved shareholder returns.

On the negative side, falling methanol prices and a temporary production outage weighed on the share price of our methanol producer Methanex. Nonetheless, we view the current tariff-related market dislocation as broad-based and temporary, creating attractive investment opportunities going forward.

Guided by our value-oriented investment strategy, we continue to maintain a modest 10 percent exposure to US equities. Our focus remains on deeply discounted European small- and mid-cap stocks, which we believe are well-positioned to benefit from evolving market conditions. Should current market dynamics persist – with capital flowing out of the US and into discounted international markets, particularly in Europe – we believe the fund is well-positioned to deliver significant value for unitholders in 2025 and beyond.

Historical returns are no guarantee for future returns. Future returns will depend, inter alia, on market developments, the fund manager's skill, the fund's risk profile and management fees. The return may become negative as a result of negative price developments. There is a risk associated with investing in the fund due to market movements, currency developments, interest rate levels, economic, sector and company-specific conditions.

RISK PROFILE

We have classified this product as 5 out of 7, which is a medium-high risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-high level. Other risks not included in the summary risk indicator but materially relevant: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk. Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.
