

Performance Commentary

The risk-on sentiment prevailed despite weak economic data and the growing risk of a COVID-19 second wave. Sentiment was supported by better-than-feared company results and accelerating trends at major internet companies. The fund's lower exposure to this more fully valued segment held back relative performance in July. Our top contributors were cyclical holdings such as Ivanhoe Mines and Turquoise Hill Resources, which benefited from a rising copper price on the back of tightening supply and expectations of stimulus-driven demand. Hyundai Motor reported a profitable quarter despite demand weakness as their cost cutting initiatives and improved sales mix supported margins. Tech Mahindra also contributed strongly, driven by resilient margins and a positive outlook from new contract wins. In terms of detractors, Naspers saw its valuation discount to Tencent widen while Bank of China continued to underperform over asset-quality and macro-related fears. We added a new position in life insurer China Life, which we believe will benefit from long-term market developments and continued institutionalisation of the domestic equity market. We exited shipping company Euronav where our investment thesis of higher rates and capital returns has largely played out. The portfolio currently consists of 42 holdings trading on 12x 2020 P/E and 0.8x current P/B.

The fund selects low-priced, high-quality companies, mainly in emerging economies.

The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return.

The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
