

Performance Commentary

By the end of August there had been over thirty interest rate cuts globally. The resulting flight to safety on the back of recession fears was positive for real estate, which still provides decent yields. Besides the ongoing trade war debacle, the escalating rhetoric between Japan and South Korea also affected the overall Asian sentiment. The ongoing Hong Kong protests are starting to have a negative effect on the economy and populistic politics is increasingly a risk within the sector. SKAGEN m2 ended the month ahead of the index thanks to strong relative contribution. The Japanese conglomerate Mitsui Fudosan was the fund's best performer in August, while all the Japanese holdings contributed positively. Our Finnish success story Kojamo delivered a solid report and came in as second best contributor. Our Hong Kong names suffered from the ongoing political turmoil. With some exceptions, the sector has been priced higher since the beginning of 2019 along with the stock market in general. In spite of this, there are still many exciting opportunities to be found in the global real estate space. The sector remains attractive due to its stable and rising top-line, low cost financing and solid cash flows. SKAGEN m2 is well positioned thanks to its philosophy and disciplined stock selection.

The fund gives access to a normally inaccessible global real estate market. The fund selects low-priced, high-quality real estate companies from around the world.

The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return.

The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
